

20/20 Tax Resolution Partnerships

Our Commitment to You

We understand that our clients often have needs that fall outside the scope of our work, such as bookkeeping, tax preparation, payroll, and lending. Finding a trusted partner to fulfill these needs can be difficult. As part of our ongoing efforts to provide our clients with comprehensive solutions to the issues they are facing, we have partnered with a few select companies in the aforementioned industries that aim to ease the burden of establishing compliance with the IRS and state taxing authorities.

Accordingly, 20/20 Tax Resolution often refers its clients to third parties in order to provide services critical to the resolution process. Although we may receive a fee for such referrals, 20/20 does not market or sell its customer list nor do we share any sensitive information without your permission. Rather, we make such referrals at your request or because the service is important to 20/20's work in obtaining a successful resolution on each client's behalf. You may opt out of being a referral by writing your 20/20 representative.

The decision to work with any third party referred to you by 20/20 is yours alone. Any fee or engagement for such work is separate from 20/20s. At times one or more of these services may play a critical role in the resolution of a tax liability, which 20/20 will be sure to inform you of. While 20/20 accepts no responsibility and is held harmless for work performed by third party companies, in the case of any work intended to be performed in conjunction with our efforts to resolve a client's back tax issues, we will make every effort to work with our partners to bring about a satisfactory result.

This is our notice to you of our commitment to the highest standards of outsourcing. If you have any questions about our partnerships, please feel free to reach out to Customer Service at the email address below.
